

Riken Yamamoto

Riken Yamamoto is an architect and founded Riken Yamamoto & Field Shop. He received a Master of Arts in Architecture from Tokyo University of the Arts, Faculty of Architecture in 1971. Yamamoto held the position of professor at Yokohama National University, Graduate School of Architecture (Y-GSA) (2007-2011) and the president of Nagoya Zokei University (2018-2022). He has also authored several works, including “Local Community Area Principles” and “THE SPACE OF POWER, POWER OF SPACE.” Yamamoto has received numerous awards throughout his career, including Prize of the Architectural Institute of Japan (1988 and 2002), Mainichi Art Awards (1998), Japan Arts Academy Award (2001), and the Pritzker Architecture Prize (2024).